Course	In this course, we study a wide range of maladaptive human behaviors from different perspectives.
Overview
	This course is designed to help students examine and appreciate the range, layers, and diversity of human behaviors and mental status. After learning basic classifications, frameworks, and common tools to discuss mental health, we will attempt to understand several case examples and discuss different perspectives.  Through this course, students will:
	approach the term "abnormal" critically and discuss what it means in the given context Course	better understand Bio-Psycho-Social processes of mental illness in relation to the causes, con-
Objectives	sequences, and some treatment options have a basic understanding of different diagnosis of mental illness
